Mister Apothecary...!!
TH
UD!
Next morning, the snow had settled, and we continued on our way, though I was making far less progress than I hoped... and my vision was getting blurry, too. I sent a rescue signal to my friend, which I should have done much sooner. He would always tell me not to push myself too far, but I did it again...
If you ever get lost,
use this pendant to call for help.
I... I need to do something...!
With my consciousness fading, I felt a warm surge of magic behind my back. It was Reszurre, who activated the pendant imbued with signaling magic that I gave her for her own protection. She used it for my sake, but I would only learn about that later, once I woke up.
